SCHOLAR TO SPEAK AT UM ON ENTREPRENEURSHIP OCT. 4

MISSOULA --

Jeffrey Timmons, internationally recognized for his work in entrepreneurship, new ventures and venture capital, will discuss "Entrepreneurship: An Opportunity for Business Schools" at the University of Montana Oct. 4.

Timmons' presentation, which is open to the public, will begin at 3 p.m. in Main Hall, Room 210.

He has developed and taught courses in new venture creation and financing entrepreneurial ventures since 1982 at Babson College in Wellesley, Mass. He describes Babson College's entrepreneurship programs as being "at the collision of the academic and practitioners' worlds." In 1989 he will hold a joint appointment at Babson College and the Harvard Business School.

His three forthcoming books, to be published this fall by Brickhouse Publishing, are: "The Entrepreneurial Mind," "New Business Opportunities" and "Planning and Financing the New Business." He has also written nearly a hundred articles for leading publications and conferences, including the Harvard Business Review and Journal of Business Venturing.
